PREFACE

The UGC scheme for mentoring NAAC Accreditation Aspirant Institution among the HEIs in the country was implemented in our Institution after the proposal was sent and accepted by the UGC in accordance with a highly strict set of eligible parameters were met by the institution.

The Paramarsh project is intended to promote Quality Assurance in Higher Education which is the next challenge for India's growth trajectory especially to get non-accredited institutions to be accredited by 2022. The scheme promotes well performing accredited institutions to mentor the NAAC aspirant Institutions. The UGC in its 532nd meeting set a target that every institution shall get NAAC accredited with a minimum score of 2.5 by 2022.

We are privileged to be the Mentor of five Higher Education Institutions to equip them to access the target goal of accreditation. The national aspiration to standardise all Higher Education Institutions to global levels is set to be reckoned by this ambitious scheme. The strategic focus is to improve quality of education of mentee institutions by enhancing their profile as a result of improved Quality and Research. The mentee institute will have increased exposure to speedily adopt best practices through financial assistance.

The Paramarsh scheme will also facilitate sharing knowledge with the Mentor institutions along with the opportunity for research collaboration and faculty development projects. The scheme envisages a paradigm shift in the concept of mentoring of institutions by another well performing institution to upgrade their academic performance and enable them to get accredited by focusing on the crucial and critical skills required for it.

The crux of higher education is debated in earnest by the nation to augment the young potential workforce that is constituted in the wealth and health of the learners. The catch them young motto applies to the academic facilitators, parents, stakeholders and the dynamic learner participants so as to ensure quality output. The greatest challenge to India's trajectory of growth and development rests on the proper implementation and absorption of the young potentially skilled workforce. We need to reorient our perceptions on the ever changing yardsticks of measurement and evaluation of the need based requirement in a nation. The innumerable opportunities, possibilities and innovations are to be enumerated through platforms of discussion by eminent scientists, thinkers and academicians to expand and open up spaces to accommodate the diversified needs of the society. The need for such discourses has become relevant in the present scenario of dynamic changes in the realm of education imparted to the next generation.

In pursuit of excellence we need to focus on the quality parameters that are enshrined in the newly drafted policies to improve the overall performance of higher education. The global picture for the deployment of the vibrant, creative energy of our youth is encouraging. The theoretical base of education can be enhanced through practical exposure of opportunities. The nation, aided by science and technology, can unify to incubate an ecosystem that opens up the windows of possibilities of jobs and job creation through entrepreneurship feasibility at a global scale. The quality assurance in their field of choice needs to be ensured by the stakeholders.

The NAAC and IQAC team of Little Flower College, Guruvayoor is hosting a NAAC sponsored National Seminar for disseminating ideas on the role of faculty and students in quality assurance NAAC accreditation in Higher Education institutions.

CONCLUSION

The UGC NAAC PARAMARSH Scheme awarded in September 2019, inaugurated a golden chapter in Little Flower College Guruvayoor as a Mentor Institute. We are proud to have been privileged to organise a number of programmes for enriching Mentee Institutions on their journey to Accreditation. The goal aspired by NAAC-PARAMARSH envisaged a standardisation of quality education through meticulous system of accreditation that has to an extent been successfully implemented by our institution.

In the short span of six months before the lockdown due to Pandemic set in, we were able to visit the Mentee institutes regularly to motivate, mould and augment the resources of each Mentee Institute as well as ramp up their capability and potential capacity to ascend the goal of accreditation. Numerous programmes were organised in the Mentor institute and in the respective Mentee Institutes in relation to Criterion specific activities as per the NAAC Manual and according to the Action Plan submitted to NAAC.

The Mentee Institutes have benefitted immensely from the NAAC-PARAMARSH Scheme that supported in identifying, augmenting and sustaining a standardised quality based education through assessment and accreditation. The Mentee Institutions are enthusiastically looking forward to more action oriented programmes to help them on the journey to accreditation.
