As per instructions, a student was allowed in one subject. A consolidated list of students under this programme was maintained at college level. Every Friday classes were conducted during the activity hour. During the mentoring sessions, the scholars were provided with supplements like notepads, pens, study materials, refreshments and so on. Even copies of notes were provided online through sources like whatsapp, facebook, blogs etc. Printed notes and question banks for various subjects under the programme as per the university pattern were given to the students of BPL families. We had a SSP Scholar with learning difficulties by the name Anjana Menon (IDC History) was given special individual attention by the Mentors and Co ordinators

Giving away student kits

The mentors organised several programmes like quiz competition, seminars, panel discussions, debates so as to boost their talent and to make the teaching environment more learner-centred. Discussions initiated by the mentors prompted students to work democratically with others in groups. In the light of the discussion, a feedback session was organised by the mentors as well.
